Pipes of the misty moorland. Voice of the gien and hill, The drone of highland torrent,

The song of lowland rill! Not the brace of bloom and heather,

Nor the mountains dark with rain, Nor maiden hower, nor border tower,

Have heard your sweetest strain !

Atal plaided mountaineer.

To the cottage and the castle. The Scottish pipes are dear.

weet sounds the ancient phoseh O'er mountsin, lock, and glade; But the sweetest of all music

The pipes at Lucknow played: Day by day the Indian tiger

Louder yelled, and nearer crept ; Round and round the jungle scrpent

Near and nearer circles swept. " Pray for rescue, wives and p others-

Pray to-day !" the soldier said, To-morrow, death's between us, And the wrong and shame we dread."

Oh! they listened, looked and waited, Till their hope became despair,

And the sobs of low bewailing Filled the pauses of their proyer,

With her ear upon the ground : "Dinna ye hear it?-dinna ye hear it?

The pipes o' Havelock sound ?" Hushed the wounded man his groaning ;

Hushed the wife her little ones; Alone they heard the drum roll.

And the roar of Sepoy guns. But to sounds of home and childhood,

The Highland car was true; "Dinna ye hear it ?- "tis the slogan ! Will ye no believe it noo !"

Like the march of soundless music. Through the Vision of the seer, More of feeling than of hearing.

Of the heart than of the car. She knew the droning pibroch. She knew the Campbell's call;

"Hark ! hear ye no MacGregor's-The gran lest o' them all !"

Oh ! they listened, dumb and breathless, And they caught the sound at last; Faint and far beyond the G mtee

Rose and fell the piper's blast ! Then a burst of wild thanksriving Mingled woman's voice and man's; "God be praised !-- the march of HAVELOCK !

The piping of the class !" Sharp and shrill as swords at strife,

Came the wild MacGregor's clan-call.

The pipes of rescue blew !

Bound the silver domes of Lucknow. Round red Dowlah's golden shrine,

Breathed the air to Britons dearest,

O'er the cruel roll of war drums. Rose that sweet and homelike strain

O'er mountain, glen and glade,

But the sweetest of all music The pipes at Lucknow played!
